Tax credits examinations

The check
Every year we check thousands of tax credits claims to make sure that
• we are paying the right amount of tax credits based on claimants’ income and circumstances, and
• we are running the tax credits system fairly and efficiently.

About your check
To help us to get a picture of your household, we may ask you for things like bank statements, payslips, household bills and details of your income and circumstances. We can also ask employers and childcarers for information.

Mistakes
We will only charge you a penalty if you have
• negligently given incorrect information, or
• not told us about a relevant change in circumstances in time, see opposite.

If we do not hear from you
You must tell us if you cannot give us the information or explain why there is a delay. If you do not send us the information by the date on the letter we can reduce or stop your tax credits. You might also have to pay a penalty.

Asking someone to help you
If you would like independent help, you can ask a friend, a professional adviser or an organisation like Citizens Advice to help you. You can also ask them to talk to us on your behalf, but we cannot talk to anyone without your permission.

If you do ask someone to help you, please write to us and tell us the • name and address of the person, or
• address and contact details of the organisation acting on your behalf.

Co-operation
The extent to which you co-operate and provide us with information is entirely up to you. You should remember that the level of your co-operation could affect the amount of any penalty.

If you are not sure whether to give us the information, we suggest you get independent advice before deciding what to do. We may decide to reduce or stop your tax credits payments based on the information we hold.

Help
If you have any questions or you would like more details please contact the office in the covering letter.

Relevant changes in circumstances - a brief reminder
You must tell us within one month if
• you get married, become a civil partner or become part of a couple and live together as husband and wife or as civil partners
• you stop being part of a married couple, civil partnership or a couple living together as husband and wife or as civil partners
• your childcare costs go down by £10 a week or more
• you stop paying childcare
• you or your partner leave the UK for more than eight weeks
• your usual working hours change so that you work less than 16 or 30 hours a week. For couples with children it is your joint working hours that count towards the 30 hours
• you have been on strike for more than 10 days
• one of your children leaves the family and moves to live with someone else
• a child or young person dies
• a child or young person you are responsible for stops qualifying for support, for example they
  - leave non-advanced full-time education or approved training before they reach 20
  - start to have their training provided under a contract of employment
  - stop being registered with a careers service, or the Connexions Service or equivalent
  - start to claim Income Support, Incapacity Benefit, income-based Jobseeker’s Allowance, Child Tax Credit or Working Tax Credit in their own right.

You should also tell us about any other changes which you think might affect your entitlement.

These notes describe in general terms what is likely to happen. If you would like more details, please contact the HM Revenue & Customs office shown on the covering letter.
