Tax credits - suspension of payments

You have not given us the information we asked for to support your tax credits claim.

What will happen if you do not contact us?

It is very important you give us the information we need, or tell us about any difficulties you have providing it. If you do not send us this information we may suspend your tax credits payments.

If we suspend your payments and you still do not give us this information, we may stop or reduce your tax credits. You may then have to pay back any tax credits that you have already been paid. It is therefore very important that you contact us.

If you are not sure what to do we suggest you take independent advice before you decide.

Difficulties supplying information

If you have a good reason for not giving us the information, let us know. We will listen to what you say and, if you cannot provide the information, or if it does not exist, we will work with you to find alternatives.

A good reason for not providing information might be that:

- your documents have been lost through fire, flood or theft and you cannot replace them in time, or
- you have a serious illness or other personal circumstances that prevents you from sending the information.

A good reason is not that you have been too busy to send us the information.

Your rights and obligations

You do not have the right to appeal against our decision to suspend your payments. However, you do have the right to appeal if we later decide to reduce or stop your award. Our leaflet WTC/AP What to do if you think our decision is wrong gives more information about how to appeal. To get a copy you can go to www.hmrc.gov.uk/leaflets/wtc_ap.pdf

Your Charter explains what you can expect from us and what we can expect from you. For more information go to www.hmrc.gov.uk/charter

If you are still unhappy, ask for your complaint to be referred to the Complaints Manager.

These notes are for guidance only and reflect the position at the time of writing. They do not affect any right of appeal.
